Opportunity 2:

Dear Registered Nurse Colleagues:

Have you thought about the individual differences each nurse brings to professional nursing practice and how these attributes might influence their professional performance? You are invited to participate in a research study to help better understand the relationship of nurses’ attributes that may influence their professional behaviors. This study will explore the relationship of nurses’ commitment, empathy and reflection, and their effects on evidence-based practice adoption.

AIM OF THE RESEARCH STUDY This research study seeks to better understand some of the influencing factors related to why nurses do or do not choose to use evidence-based practice. Your participation in this research is voluntary and confidential. To participate, you must be a practicing registered nurse at any level and licensed in the United States. You will have the opportunity to be entered into one of two $100.00 Amazon Gift Card lotteries if you choose to provide your email.

Please follow the link below to access the informed consent and begin the survey.

Thank you very much, Lynn E. Johnson, CNM, NP, RN Doctoral Candidate-Adelphi University

Opportunity 3:

Dear conference participant:

https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/5WB76DS
As a QSEN conference participant we know you are concerned about how well we educate our workforce to be able to be part of quality improvement in clinical settings.

A national taskforce under the National Collaborative for Improving the Clinical Learning Environment (NCICLE) worked last year on developing a framework that will engage new clinicians in patient safety. The framework outlines desired behaviors associated with new clinician skills needed for engaging in patient safety activities in their first year.

We have developed a 10-item inventory based on the four areas in the framework that we hope you will help us validate so we can use it in future work examining both new and experienced clinicians’ perceptions of their knowledge and skills.

If you are willing to participate in this validation, please access the survey by scanning the QR-code below or using the web link and code. This will take you to the 10-item inventory where we at the end will ask for your comments on the inventory.

Use the QR code: OR, use the web address and code below:

If you have any questions or wish to know about NCICLE’s work please contact Marianne Baernholdt on email: mbaernholdt@vcu.edu and/or at the B1. SPECIAL SESSION 3: (Blue Heron): Integrating the National Collaborative for Improving the Interprofessional Clinical Learning Environment (NCICLE.org) Recommendations. Thursday 5/31 8:30-10 am.

Thanks for your help!
